

OREGON AND WASHINGTON FOLK TO ENTERTAIN PORTLAND ROSARIANS

Plans Outlined at Meeting of Northwesterners at the Outrigger Club

As a part of the Hands-Around-the-Pacific movement, directly a part of the Pan-Pacific Club through the plans of Alexander Hume Ford, president of that organization, 30 people of Oregon and Washington gathered at a supper party last night at the Outrigger Club. Plans for entertaining the Royal Rosarians, Portland visitors who are coming to the islands next February, were discussed fully by various speakers. Mr. Ford, who introduced the subject, after a short talk turned the meeting over to Riley H. Allen, chairman of the special committee appointed by the Hawaii Promotion Committee for the purpose of boosting the coming of the Rosarians.

Mr. Allen called on various speakers, all of whom expressed great willingness to take a part in entertaining the Rosarians. Dr. W. H. Fry's happy talk was a feature. A party at the Outrigger Club, with swimming and sailing in the afternoon and a dinner in the evening is one of the plans favorably considered. The club grounds have already been offered by the directors as a place for entertaining the visitors.

After the matter had been considered fully, the chairman appointed Edward Dekum, a Portlander by birth, to serve at the head of the entertainment committee. Mr. Dekum will confer with Mr. Allen, and together they will name the remaining members of the committee of seven.

The question of presenting state flags to the Pan-Pacific Club at the Flag Day exercises on September 27 was also discussed by the representatives. A committee will be appointed to take up the matter at once.

The following persons were present: From Oregon—Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Kerr, Misses Margaret McEntann, M. Kelly, and Edward Dekum. Dr. W. H. Fry, Henry Fry, R. E. Lambert, Gus A. Schroeder and John P. Stone. From Washington—Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Carter and Mrs. John C. Poole, Dr. and Mrs. S. D. Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. George McDowney, Mrs. J. M. Warriner, Mrs. Gilbert C. Bowser, Mrs. Adele W. Ashmun, Misses Cora Varney, Margaretta Herndon, Margaret Linn, Emily V. Warriner, Jessie B. McKay, Agnes G. Dunne, R. Linn and Riley H. Allen.

DAYTON'S CITY MANAGER WRITES OF GOOD RESULTS

efforts could rebuild the city and continue its progress.

Manager Waite writes in response to the Star-Bulletin's inquiry: "Dear Sir: "Complying with your request of recent date, we are sending you under separate cover a copy of the Dayton charter.

"If you are interested in the charter, you will likewise be interested in the following facts regarding the campaign which led up to the adoption of the charter and also in a word as to how the city manager form of government worked out during the first few months of its administration.

"In the first place Dayton is noted for the civic pride of its people. Because of dissatisfaction among the great majority of the people, resulting from the failure of the old form of government to achieve the desired results in the operation of the city's business, a large group of men from all walks of life formed a volunteer citizens' committee move, in January, 1913, and raised the question, 'Shall Dayton Have a New Charter?'

"After several mass meetings of citizens, this citizen committee determined to put forward 35 candidates for a charter commission, who were pledged to what is now known as the 'Dayton Plan' and what is in reality the city manager or commission-manager form of government. In May of 1913 the people by an overwhelming majority nominated the 35 candidates for a charter commission who were endorsed by the citizen's committee. In September, 1913, the complete charter as drawn by these charter commissioners was submitted to the electors for ratification or rejection, and again the people by a vast majority voted in favor of the city manager plan. The effect of this great majority in favor of the charter was so apparent that practically no effort was made to defeat the elections of the candidates for the city commission who were pledged to carry out all of the provisions in this new charter.

"The commission organized soon after election and as its first step heeded the city manager who in turn named the directors of the several departments in the city as governed by the charter, these appointments being confirmed by the commission. The city manager administration began its official task January 1, 1914. The people are manifesting an almost unbelievable amount of interest in the affairs of their city government and are apparently entirely satisfied with the results shown thus far.

Efficiency Counts.

The city manager form of government is proving less expensive because the manager is empowered and has chosen men for their efficiency only. This allows business methods to be established in all departments and savings made by reducing salaries and business methods substituted in the purchase of materials, and in the consolidation of departments.

The organization of the department of finance in particular is now being perfected and when completed will be as thorough, as efficient and as up-to-date as the best accounting system in any private manufacturing corporation. In keeping with this advance in the finance department, all other departments are being reorganized. There is everywhere in the city service, that spirit of cooperation and earnest desire to serve the people, which was not universally evident in the past.

For your farther information, let me add that before a city is ready to consider the question of a change in government, the citizens should be given an opportunity to know many of the facts concerning their own city, which will be possible only through an efficient organization of municipal experts. I refer to such an organization as the bureau of municipal research which operated in this city for a year before any effort at a charter revision was even considered. This bureau of municipal research made detailed investigations and surveys of all city departments, thereby furnishing material which served as a basis upon which to build a new charter; and also material necessary for publicity purposes during the charter campaign. The Dayton bureau, doubtless, will be glad to send you certain literature in this connection.

The work of a bureau of municipal research—organizations of this kind are now established in New York, Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Springfield, Mass., Milwaukee, Portland, Ore., and other places—are entirely constructive. Such an organization would pave the way for charter revision in any city.

In closing, I want to say that no particular form of municipal government will be a success unless the people themselves are interested and will participate in the cause themselves. If there is any other information I can give you, we shall be delighted to furnish the same.

Very truly yours,
H. M. WAITE,
City Manager.

CITY PLANNING ORDINANCE UP FOR THIRD TIME

"No Smoking" Rule Advocated By Mayor Will Also Face Fate Tonight

When the board of supervisors stepped work with their changes on Mayor Lane's new rules and regulations last Wednesday night they were but half way through, which means that the rest of the rules will probably be gone over tonight.

Neither Mayor Lane nor Robert Shingle will be at the meeting this evening, both having gone on a trip to Hawaii for 10 days, but it is likely that the remaining members of the board will go ahead with the work.

The remaining clauses which are due for consideration are as follows: Previous question, reconsideration, disposition of bills, reading of bills, general files, special files, special orders, debate, order, demeanor and punishment, order of business, questions of order, attendance and reporters.

The chief interest in the meeting tonight probably attaches to the clause that provides against smoking by supervisors in the assembly hall at time of meetings.

It is expected that the rule will be stricken out by the supervisors, all of whom, with the exception of Robert Horner, are fond of the "Jimmy pipe" or the "rope." Mr. Horner has already stated that he is willing to let the others smoke if they care to.

The city planning ordinance which was introduced several weeks ago by Supervisor Charles N. Arnold, is due for third reading tonight.

The ordinance which provides for taking the water management from the city and county engineer and giving it to the superintendent of the waterworks department, cannot be read tonight owing to the fact that a bill may be voted on not sooner than 24 hours after printing. Today marks the last issue of the first three printings, so that the ordinance will have to wait until the regular meeting on next Tuesday night.

REDEEM BONDS BEARING HIGH INTEREST RATE

Beginning today the territorial treasurer is advertising the redeeming of government bonds to the amount of $100,000. This is for bonds dated October 1, 1903, which will be payable at the office of the treasurer or at the National Park Bank in New York.

The bonds are to be paid from the sinking fund which was established by law in 1907, the law being that certain money at certain times shall be deposited in the fund.

Interest paid on the bonds is at the rate of 4 1/2 per cent, which amounts in one year on $100,000 to $4,500. The money in the sinking fund, deposited in local banks, draws interest at the rate of 2 per cent, or $2,000 a year. The redemption of the issue will save the territory $2500 in interest each year.

"Next year," says Treasurer C. J. McCarthy, "we plan to redeem about $150,000 worth of the bonds. We have on hand a little more than the $100,000 this time, but we will merely keep the surplus over to apply on next year's payment."

RALLIES AFTER LYING TWO DAYS AT DEATH'S DOOR

Beautiful Jane O'Rourke, seriously ill with pneumonia, may recover. After lying for two days and nights at the door of death, after the last rites of the church had been administered to her by a Catholic priest, after oxygen had been given her to sustain the last sparks of life, she last night rallied in splendid fashion, and this morning the report comes from the Queen's Hospital that she is resting easily and that the doctors and nurses for the first time are hopeful.

It is probable that the young actress, who delighted Honolulu audiences for several performances at the Bijou, owes her chance for life to her magnificent constitution as well as to the heroic efforts which are being made at the hospital to keep her in the land of the living.

the company's drydock, this being based on a charge of 25 cents a day for every foot of the boat's weight. If the F-4 remains in drydock until next Wednesday, 30 days from the time she was floated in, drydock charges alone will be $800.

Jack Agars, whose sensational diving is the earlier attempts to recover the submarine, set a new world's record when he descended 235 feet without a diving helmet for protection against the 150 pounds pressure of the water, and swimming at that depth, will go to the main body of the transport Sherman tomorrow, in search of survivors for the purpose of securing a wife, who is ill, Agars, who earlier named a mate on the F-4 and his work was given him the reputation of being the world's best "free" diver. His record dive was made the day the grappling hooks caught the anchor, which was believed to be the submarine.

WOULD PUT SKELETON OF F-4 IN CITY PARK IN MEMORY OF CREW

"Now is the time for Honolulu to get together and persuade the naval department to allow the city the custody of the hull of the ill-fated F-4," said Supervisor Ben Hollinger this morning.

"If we work together we can certainly prevail upon the government to let us have the hull. It could be placed in Kapiolani park, and in addition to being a sight of bona interest to residents and tourists, it would be converted into a teaching memorial to the men who lost their lives while serving their country.

"According to my information, the engine and all mechanism will be stripped from the sunken craft, the plan being to tow the hull out to sea and there let it sink.

"Why can't individuals and organizations here cable Washington for this hull?"

Supervisor Hollinger has already created a strong sentiment in support of his plan and it is said several

FORMER PILOT IS DEAD AFTER LONG ILLNESS

At that time he was captain of the Claudine.

He left the inter-island service in 1911 to accept a position as territorial pilot for the port of Honolulu, which position he retained until the fatal disease forced his retirement. His list of acquaintances and friends, already a large one, rapidly increased from 1911 to 1914 with the increased opportunities to make friends as pilot for a large proportion of the ships entering and leaving the local harbor until today his plane of friends extends from the west coast of America around the great circle to the Orient and the South Seas.

Besides the widow and an unmarried daughter, a brother, Capt. William G. Bennett of the Claudine, survives him. Funeral services will be conducted by the local lodge of Elks, of which the deceased had long been a member, commencing at 1:30 o'clock on Sunday afternoon. Following the service by the Elks, the remains will be taken to the Catholic cathedral where a second service will be conducted. The body will be interred in Nuuuau cemetery. Mr. Bennett was also a member of the National Master Pilots' Association.

The Normal school will be open for the enrollment of pupils on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week, from 9 until 10 o'clock each morning. All Normal teachers are asked to report at the school on or before September 10, or to communicate with Mr. Wood as soon as possible.

ried, in case of total or partial isolation, would therefore seem to be one that merits consideration, and one for which Dr. Melvin might possibly be able to suggest measures, at least in so far as the live stock industry is concerned.

The governor's letter was made public today when it was presented at a meeting of the board of agriculture and forestry as a part of the annual report of Dr. Victor A. Norgaard, territorial veterinarian.

In his letter the governor points out that while the territory is remarkably free from infectious and contagious diseases of live stock, there seems still to remain problems which an unimpaired mind might solve more readily than one constantly impressed by local conditions.

"Among those problems might be mentioned the control and eradication of bovine tuberculosis," says the communication, "with which work the said board has been engaged for more than five years, the results showing a reduction of bovine tuberculosis on the island of Oahu from nearly 30 per cent to a fraction more than two per cent, while the local board of health shows a corresponding decrease in the cases of tuberculosis in children under five years of age."
